A CURE FOR ALL!!

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

EXTRAORDINARY CURE OF A CASE ABANDONED BY GUY'S, THE METROPOLITAN, KING'S COLLEGE, AND CHARING CROSS HOSPITALS, LONDON.

This fact was sworn to this 8th day of March, 1842, before the Lord Mayor, at the Mansion House.

SUMMARY OF AFFIDAVIT.

WILLIAM BROOKE, Messenger, of 2, Union-street, Southwark, London, maketh oath and saith, that he (this deponent) was afflicted with fifteen running ulcers on his left arm, and ulcerated sores and wounds on both legs, for which deponent was admitted an out-door patient at the Metropolitan Hospital in April, 1841, where he continued for nearly four weeks. Unable to receive a cure there, the deponent sought relief in the three following hospitals:—King's College Hospital, in May, for five weeks; at Guy's Hospital, in July, for six weeks; and at Charing Cross Hospital, at the end of August, for some weeks more; which deponent left, being in a far worse condition than when he had quitted Guy's, where Sir Bransby Cooper, and other medical officers of the establishment, had told deponent that the only chance of saving his life was to lose his arm! The deponent thereupon called upon Dr. Bright, chief physician of Guy's, who, on viewing deponent's condition, kindly and liberally said, "I am utterly at a loss what to do for you, but here is half-a-sovereign, go to Mr. Holloway, and try what effect his pills and ointment will have, as I have frequently witnessed the wonderful effects they have in desperate cases. You can let me see you again." This unprejudiced advice was followed by the deponent, and a perfect cure effected in three weeks, by the use alone of Holloway's pills and ointment, after four hospitals had failed!! When Dr. Bright was shown by the deponent the result of his advice and charity, he said, "I am both astounded and delighted, for I thought that if ever I saw you again alive, it would be without your arm. I can only compare this cure to a charm!!!"

Sworn at the Mansion-house of the City of London, this 8th day of March, 1842.
WM. BROOKE.
Before me,
JOHN PIRIE, Mayor.

IN ALL DISEASES of the skin, bad legs, old wounds, and ulcers, bad breasts, sore nipples, stoney and ulcerated cancers, tumours, swellings, gout, rheumatism, and lumbago, likewise in cases of piles; the pills, in all the above cases, ought to be used with the ointment, as by this means cures will be effected with a much greater certainty, and in half the time that it would require by using the ointment alone. The ointment is proved to be a certain remedy for the bite of moschettoes, sand flies, chiego foot, yaws, and coco-bay.

Burns, scalds, chilblains, chapped hands, and lips, also bunions and soft corns, will be immediately cured by the use of the ointment.

THE PILLS are not only the finest remedy known when used with the ointment, but as a General Medicine there is nothing equal to them.—In nervous affections, as well as in all cases of general debility, or where there is a want of purity in the blood and fluids, they will ensure HEALTH TO ALL!!

She left Kellick's Wharf at 9·30 A.M., and arrived at her destination at 1·35 P.M., having kept close to the coast during the passage down. Her rate averaged, under steam alone, nine and a half knots; and the trip throughout seems to have given universal satisfaction. She arrived back at eleven o'clock last night.

The steamer Maitland is on the Slip undergoing extensive repairs. The engines and machinery have been taken out of her, and the former will be replaced with new ones. It is not expected that her detention will exceed three weeks, when she will resume her trips to Port Macquarie.

Sworn to no master, of no sect am I.'

OUR WANT OF LABOUR.

The session of 1846 is rapidly drawing to a close; and yet not one resolution has been passed, nor one notice been given, on the all-important subject of Immigration. We took the liberty of pressing this matter upon the attention of honorable members so long ago as the 28th of May; but to no purpose. They seem to have forgotten all about it. The paper is crowded with questions of comparatively no interest, many of which, at any rate, might be allowed to slumber on the shelf until next year; whilst this — "the question of questions"—is as completely overlooked as if it were a nonentity!

And yet there never, perhaps, was a moment in the history of the colony when immigration was more needed than now. In all parts of the interior, agricultural and pastoral, there is an urgent and increasing demand for more labourers. Wages are rising so rapidly, that, unless checked by a competition of which we see no prospect, they will soon have reached a point at which they will leave no profit to employers. It is to be feared, indeed, that in some districts this point has already been attained; and still, even at those unbearable rates, the number of hands absolutely required for immediate operations cannot be procured.

What is to be done? The least we can do is to make our sufferings known—to express our sense of their pressure—and to invoke relief from those by whom relief may be given. But we have not done this least. At any rate, we have not done it through our constitutional organs. We have not done it through our representatives in the legislature. They are dumb and motionless. Any person in England looking through the pages of their journal of proceedings, would infer that the Labour Question was at rest—that the colony was not only full of work, but full of workmen too—that masters were well supplied with servants, and servants with masters—that, in the labour market, demand and supply were in a state of felicitous equilibrium. The inference would be perfectly justified by the premises, and yet such as the experience of every farmer and grazier in the land would indignantly repudiate.

The apathy of the Council is the more extraordinary, as an intimation was given to them by the Colonial Secretary, on the 26th of May, that a qualified recommendation had been transmitted to the Secretary of State by the late Governor, to the effect that emigration, to the extent of one-third of that proposed by the Immigration Committee of the previous session, should be encouraged. This intimation ought certainly to have been followed up before now by an Address to Her Majesty, or a petition to Parliament, or both, setting forth the urgency of the case, and imploring a reasonable measure of assistance. Nay, this ought to have been done had there been no such intimation. So long as the colony shall continue to be in want of labour, so long ought this to be a standing Sessional Question, coming forward just as naturally, being just as much a matter of course, as the Revenue Appropriation Bill. It is a question that can never be worn out. To the colonists it is always new, because always important to their vital interests. Like the appetite for food, it comes upon them every succeeding day with fresh demands. It may possibly be monotonous and tiresome to the Government; but what the appeals of the Council may lack in the attractions of novelty, should be more than compensated by earnest importunity. Let the Council lay siege to the Colonial Office, session after session, urging and re-urging the strong facts of their cause; and in the end, terms of capitulation are sure to be gained.

There is a peculiar reason why the appeal should be renewed at the present juncture. The colonists have seen by the communications addressed to the Speaker by our Parliamentary Agent, the Honorable Mr. Scott, that Ministers were strongly inclined to coquette with New South Wales for a modified renewal of transportation. This is now made still more unequivocal. By the recent arrivals from England, a quasi despatch has been received at Government House from Mr. Secretary Gladstone, intimating that if the colonists would not object to convict labour, they might have it on terms more favourable than ever. We are given to understand, that if convicts should be accepted for our roads and other public works, the British Treasury would not quarrel with any terms and conditions we might stipulate as to their maintenance and supervision. This, it must be confessed, is an alluring bait; and we have no doubt some of our honorable members will look at it with a wistful eye, and be strongly inclined to nibble; whilst others of them will be ready to swallow it at a mouthful. Not so, we would fain hope, with the majority. The larger number are surely prepared to make a firm stand against any and every overture that bodes evil to the moral welfare of the colony. If not, the colonists must speak out for themselves. Of them, at all events, the majority—the vast majority—would, we are persuaded, rather submit to any temporary inconvenience arising from the scarcity of labour, than bring upon their country the lasting evils, the indelible stigma, of what is known amongst us as "Convictism." Whatever may be thought by the sordid fortune-hunters, whose eyes, perverted by the enchantments of Mammon, can see no evil but poverty, no good but wealth, we cannot doubt that the great bulk of those who consider the colony their home—especially heads of families, and virtuous brothers and sisters—would deprecate a revival of convictism as one of the direst calamities that could befal the land. To them, then, should we make our appeal—their remonstrances, their strenuous and uncompromising resistance, should we invoke—were a majority of the Council to betray a want of right feeling on this critical subject. And we could have no fears as to the result. The colony would be up. Overwhelming numbers would hasten to denounce and oppose the threatened infliction.

But let us hope better things of the Council. There are men in that House who, we know, deeply sympathise with the constituency in their dread and abhorrence of the whole system of convictism; men whom no paltry considerations of gain could for one moment seduce from the path of duty. Let us hope that the example of these sound patriots—patriots in the true sense of the word—if it cannot change, will at least shame, their less magnanimous compeers.

All circumstances considered, if the Council separate without some demonstration concerning the Labour Question, they will, in our opinion, be chargeable with a grievous neglect of what they owe both to themselves and to the country.

[This article was in type for yesterday's Herald, but was omitted for want of space. It will be seen by our Council report that the despatch referred to was yesterday laid before the Legislature. It is a curious document, well calculated to effect its object, and give the lovers of convictism a peg on which to hang their arguments, but we hope the insidious offer will be firmly rejected.—Eds.]

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

Wednesday, October 7.

The Speaker took the chair at half-past three o'clock.

TRANSPORTATION SYSTEM.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY, under the command of His Excellency the Governor, laid upon the table of the House a highly important despatch, which he had received from the Right Honorable the Secretary of State, relative to the transportation system. The despatch contained information of the highest importance to the colony, and although it had been marked "private and confidential," His Excellency had thought fit to lay it before the Council, with a view to its publicity, in order that the opinions of the colonists on the subject might be elicited. (Hear, hear, hear.) He should now move that the despatch be printed.

Carried.

BELL AND HAMILTON.

Mr. MACARTHUR presented a petition from John Hamilton, of Parramatta, setting forth that he had been much injured by the delay which had taken place in certain criminal proceedings which had been instituted against him by a convict who had been nineteen times convicted. Before these proceedings were commenced his credit stood high, and his trade was flourishing; but he had since been obliged to turn insolvent, and although his creditors had readily acceded to his receiving his certificate, that during the pending of such proceedings his reputation and interests suffered; that these proceedings had been protracted over a space of two years, and had exposed him to an expense of £900. He prayed the House that it would grant him compensation for the injuries he had suffered, and that it would take measures to prevent such delays in the administration of justice taking place in future. He (Mr. Macarthur) should not stop to inquire whether the allegations of the petition were true or not, but he did think that a very serious question was involved in the matter respecting the administration of justice. He should move that the petition be read.

Mr. WINDEYER seconded the motion.

The petition having been read, its reception was objected to on a point of order, that it prayed for a specific sum of money, and it was consequently withdrawn by Mr. Macarthur.

LEGAL PROFESSION.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY, in the absence of the Attorney-General, moved that the petition from the Port Phillip Bar, presented by him yesterday, be referred to the Select Committee on the Division of the Legal Profession Bill.

The motion was agreed to.

THE SQUATTERS.

Captain O'CONNELL gave notice that he would move, on Friday, the 16th October, "That an address be presented to His Excellency the Governor, praying that His Excellency will be pleased to urge upon the attention of Her Majesty's Government, through Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Colonies, the anomalous position with regard to political rights held by licensed occupiers of crown lands in this colony, who, subjects of Great Britain by birth, colonists of a portion of her dominions to which the right of Government by representation has been formally conceded, and holders of property to the extent of fully one-half of the productive capital of the colony they inhabit, are yet taxed without representation, and legislated for in this Council without having any voice in the election of its members; and that His Excellency will be further pleased to recommend to Her Majesty's Government the adoption of such measures as may be deemed best calculated to obviate this unconstitutional grievance, and to convert what are now licenses to occupy crown lands from year to year, into such other and more permanent tenure, as will, under proper restrictions for the public benefit, and without danger from undue influence on that constitutional right, carry with it a legal claim to the benefit of the elective franchise."

ESTATES OF DECEASED PERSONS BILL.

On the motion of the COLONIAL SECRETARY, the second reading of the Estates of Deceased Persons Better Management Bill was postponed till this day.

VACCINE INSTITUTION.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY moved that his Excellency's Message on the subject of a Vaccine Institution be read.

The Message was read by the Clerk.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY said, the circumstances which induced the proposal of his Excellency were so clearly stated in the message and its enclosures, that it would not be needful for him to enter into any lengthened observations on the subject. It was well known that in a colony with which this was in constant commercial intercourse small pox had been raging to a fatal extent. In this colony they had fortunately hitherto been free from the ravages of this frightful scourge, but it was incumbent on them to take every precaution in their power against its introduction. In order to do this, it was necessary that a constant supply of vaccine lymph should be kept in the colony, and be made available for use whenever it was required. This it was found very difficult to do without the establishment of a vaccine institution. It was a subject which had frequently occupied his thoughts; but hitherto there had been difficulties in the way of such an establishment. He should therefore move, when the miscellaneous estimates were called on that this item be taken into consideration.

The COLONIAL TREASURER seconded the motion.

Mr. WINDEYER: There was a large part of the question connected with this subject of which he was personally utterly unable to judge, and he had therefore made enquiries into the matter of medical friends of his, and he found what he suspected to be the fact was entirely confirmed. That there was in fact, not to use the short and strong word in which the proposal had been described, no difficulty whatever in keeping up the supply of vaccine lymph. The House too should recollect that in voting this sum, and thus raising a new official institution, they would fasten on themselves this expense for ever, and make it also the nucleus for other establishments of the same description in the different towns of the colony. He agreed with the Colonial Secretary that the subject was a very serious one, and that the danger ought to be seriously guarded against; but it might be guarded against equally well in a different, and less expensive way. He hoped therefore the Colonial Secretary would postpone this matter till next Session, when a Committee might be appointed to enquire into the necessity there was for all the appointments contained in the present estimate. It was true that there was a time when there was a difficulty in procuring a supply of vaccine lymph, but, like other of their difficulties, that had passed away. He had applied to his own medical man, who immediately took out two square bits of glass on which the lymph was, and he assured him that there was no difficulty in maintaining the supply—that it was just as easy to keep up a regular supply of children with the small pox, as it was to keep up the supply of children without the small pox (great laughter). He did not see that there was anything very pressing in the matter, and hoped that the Colonial Secretary would consent to postpone it.

Mr. BLAND agreed in the main with the honorable member for Durham, that this measure had better be referred to a Committee, where inquiry might be made into it.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY: The only objection he could have to the postponement of the measure was, that in the mean time the small pox might make its appearance, with the most disastrous effect on human life. It was found advisable that vaccine institutions should be established in England, and he thought that in a city like Sydney, containing upwards of 38,000 inhabitants, such an institution ought to exist. It was not so much for the benefit of the richer classes, who, he admitted, might generally obtain a supply of the lymph, as for the poorer ones, that this measure was intended, and when it was remembered how fearfully this disease had raged in the Mauritius and Manila, where many thousands of children had been destroyed by it, and what constant commercial intercourse prevailed between both these colonies and New South Wales, he did not think they would be justified in procrastinating any precautions it was in the power of the Council to take. He must contend that there was not always so great a facility in obtaining lymph as was supposed by the honorable and learned member for Durham, for he had at times been unable to procure it for himself. It was true, perhaps, that the expense need not be so great as that proposed in the estimate, but looking at it in an economical point of view only, he thought it would be better to admit this trifling charge than to run any risk of seeing the emigrants whom they had introduced at the cost of a million of money, dying off by thousands. Thus, even if motives of humanity were left out of the question, he did not think this matter should be deferred. The establishment of this Institution was not intended to benefit Sydney only, but to procure and maintain a supply of lymph, which could be distributed throughout the colony. He could not, looking at the great general good such a measure was calculated to produce, consent to its postponement till next session, whatever alteration the Council might think fit to make in the estimate.

Mr. BLAND explained, he was not opposed to the object proposed, but that he thought the machinery was not only cumbersome but inadequate.

The question was then put, and the House divided, when there appeared—

ESTIMATES FOR 1847.

On the order of the day being moved for the further consideration in Committee of the estimates for 1847.

Mr. WENTWORTH, in pursuance of notice, moved "That this Council do agree to and adopt the following Address to His Excellency the Governor:—'We, the members of the Legislative Council of New South Wales, in Council assembled,—perceiving that your Excellency has placed on the Estimates of Expenditure, several departments for which provision is made by Schedule A to the Act of Parliament 5 and 6 Victoria, cap. 76, annexed—desire most respectfully to intimate to your Excellency that, being thus called on to vote a Supplement to the services in the said schedule enumerated, we claim the right, as heretofore, to fix the amount to be appropriated to every detail of such services, except such as are specifically provided for in such schedule. At the same time, we respectfully beg to assure your Excellency, that we have no intention, in asserting this right, to propose alterations in any of the salaries in the said schedule to which the faith of Her Majesty's Government has already been pledged.' It would be in the recollection of the House that in its first session, when it was the opinion of the Governor that it was necessary that a supplement should be voted to schedule A, that he had invited them to examine the different items contained in that schedule. He had then stated to them in his message to the Council with the estimates, that it was fit and proper they should exercise a right to examine such schedule, before they voted any supplement to it. In compliance with his Excellency's wish, the Council did proceed con amore to the work of examination (laughter). And considering the finances of the colony to be in a very depressed state, they did abridge many items in that schedule, but in obeying his Excellency's desire, they had gone further than he imagined they would go, or at least than he thought it was desirable they should go. He consequently recalled the invitation he had given to the Council, and the Council then refused to vote the supplement asked for. It was not necessary for him to go into all the details which had since occurred with respect to this matter. It was enough to say, that whenever the Council had been asked to vote any supplement to the schedule, it had unhesitatingly refused, steadily maintaining the principle it had laid down, of having a right to examine all the items of any schedule if they were called on to make any additions to it. It would appear that a supplement to this schedule was asked for 1847, and it was on that ground that he moved the present Address to his Excellency. The resolutions of the Council on the subject were framed in reason and justice, and they could not depart from them. The only way that House could vote the supplement asked for, was, by having the schedule submitted to its consideration. The address asserted the right expressed in the former resolutions of the House, namely the right to fix the amount to be appropriated to every detail of such services, except such as are specially provided for in such schedule. There were certain salaries in the schedule fixed by the Act, and these of course they could not interfere with, but the other items of the schedule the Council had a right to control—a right fully conceded in the first financial message of his late Excellency. The claim of the Council indeed in this particular was evidently grounded in common sense, for it was absurd to ask them to vote an addition without giving them the power to judge whether such assistance was necessary or not. They could not, therefore, vote the supplement without the power was conceded to them of fixing the salaries in the schedule. But the aspect of the times was changed. They were not now oppressed with the same financial difficulties which formerly oppressed them. The Government too was changed, and happy was he to say, that the change was not only a change of men, but a change of measures, and now for the first time had that Council been met with a spirit of cordiality, which it was fit should exist between the Executive and the Legislature. On these grounds he deemed it right that the Council should, whilst maintaining its principle as far as possible, relieve the Government from embarrassment, and it was for this reason that the latter part of the address, assuring his Excellency that the Council had no intention to propose alterations in the salaries in the schedule to which the faith of Her Majesty's Government was pledged, was intended. He believed these salaries were not very numerous. The late Government seemed most afraid of the salaries of the Master and the Prothonotary, and doubtless if the schedule had been left to the Council, these gentlemen would have been cut down a hundred or two. In doing so, he confessed he thought the Council would have done no more than its duty, as these salaries were fixed by the Secretary of State after the Constitutional Act was promulgated, and when he must have known that the Council had a right to fix these salaries itself. But, as he had before said, the financial state of affairs was reformed, and the Government was reformed, and he doubted not the schedule would be now submitted to them in effect as fully as it was in words by the late Governor. He for one, therefore, was willing to refrain from dealing with these pledged salaries, which, right or wrong, had been promised, and after the alteration in the measures of the Government, and the spirit of frankness with which they had been met, he was not disposed to interfere with them. He was not without hope that the course to which he now invited them would not be without its effect on the Local Government, and the Home Government too, and that no future appointments would be made without the sanction of the Council. By adopting this course too, one great difficulty in the way of a friendly co-operation between the Executive and the Legislative Council would be got rid of; and he trusted that His Excellency would not think that there was any intention in this course to embarrass his government. His intention in moving the address was far different. It was to smooth out of his path some of the obstacles which had been left by his predecessor; and it was in all good faith that he, and he believed those who would support him, now moved this address. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. COWPER seconded the motion.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY, in rising to make a few observations, had not the slightest intention of opposing the motion on the part of the Government. The great reason which he had ever opposed to the reduction in the salaries of the schedule was, that the faith of the Government was pledged to maintain some of them, and that pledge he thought should be kept inviolable. The reduction of these salaries was strictly guarded in this address, and with this provision, he admitted that as a supplement was asked, the schedule should be submitted to the Council. He should, therefore, he was happy to say, be able to meet the hon. and learned member for Sydney in the spirit of kindness and cordiality which his own speech breathed; and he should always rejoice to forward the good understanding which it was so desirable should prevail between the Government and the Legislature. He believed that the address would be received in perfect sincerity; and for his own part, as he felt sure his honorable friend had no intention to embarrass the Government, he should cordially support the motion.

Mr. WINDEYER: Should also be happy to support the address, as, if the main object of the Colonial Secretary, which he admitted had always been to maintain the faith of the Home Government to certain persons, were secured by it, so was the principle which had been laid down by the Council. He had no idea that there would be any intention to circumvent the Council, and should rejoice to join in the cordial feeling which seemed to prevail. He might not go all the way with his honorable and learned friend as to the improved state of the revenue, but he did feel that something was due to his Excellency, as all the overtures and acts of conciliation had as yet proceeded from him, and he deemed it right for the Council on the present occasion to offer a mark of confidence and gratitude.

The motion was then put and passed, and the Address was ordered to be presented by the Speaker, the Colonial Secretary, and the Colonial Treasurer.

On the motion of the Colonial Treasurer the Council went into Committee on the Estimates of Expenditure for 1847.

PUBLIC WORKS.

The COLONIAL-TREASURER moved the following items of Public Works.

Towards forming the Circular Quay, Sydney Cove, the further sum of	£2000	0	0
Towards completing the Breakwater, Newcastle, the further sum of	1000	0	0
Towards completing the Road over the Blue Mountains, the further sum of	1000	0	0
To defray the expenses of the employment of the Dredging Machine	1250	0	0

Mr. LOWE objected to the vote for the Circular Quay: if it were intended to extend it—if it were intended to complete work at present begun, he should be willing to vote it. He did not approve of the Government undertaking the business of wharfingers.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY: The vote was required partly to complete works already begun. It was not intended to extend it until the Bill, which had been this day postponed, had been under the consideration of the House. If this work were to go on, there were funds arising from the sale of land which had been redeemed from the sea to meet it, as the proceeds of the sale of such allotments were not paid into the Crown revenue.

After a short conversation the items were carried.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

The COLONIAL TREASURER moved the sum of £2000, for the expense of building a Court-house at Goulburn.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY explained that this sum would complete the building, and was very anxious that Circuit Courts should be extended to Goulburn, and hoped that arrangements for such a purpose might be carried into effect by February next.—Carried.

The COLONIAL TREASURER moved the sum of £2000, for the expense of building a Court-house at Bathurst.—Carried.

The COLONIAL TREASURER moved the sum of £2500, towards completing the new Gaol at Maitland.—Carried.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY moved the sum of £500, for completing the new Gaol at Darlinghurst.

Mr. WINDEYER asked if this sum was to go to the treadmill, which they had voted a large sum of money for two years ago, and which was not yet completed.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY stated, that a difficulty had arisen as to the establishment of the treadmill at Darlinghurst, from a claim for £500 for the treadmill, which had been made by the military chest.

The item was postponed for the present.

The COLONIAL TREASURER moved the sum of £820 for the building of a gaol at Moreton Bay.

Mr. LOWE asked if the gaol would not be very small.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY explained: There were large buildings at Moreton Bay, built whilst it was a penal settlement, and these had been handed over to the colony; and it was to repair and put these in order that the money was required.

Mr. LOWE would call the attention of the Government to the state of this district, where crime at present was almost unpunished, from the expense of coming 900 miles to prosecute. He would suggest whether a Court of Quarter Sessions might not be erected in the district.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY agreed with the honorable and learned member that it was necessary that something should be done, and promised that it should have his attention.—The item was then passed.

The following items were passed without observation:—

For enclosing the Yard and providing Privies for the accommodation of the public, at the Criminal Court House, Sydney	£200	0	0
For providing Iron Doors to twelve cells; providing Bars to the Windows at the circular ends of the wings, and Iron Gratings for securing the Areas round the Gaoler's House at Parramatta Gaol	140	0	0

The COLONIAL TREASURER moved the sum of £2500

For enclosing the proposed Cemeteries with a stone wall, eight feet high, and subdividing the same into six compartments, by stone walls, six feet high	£2,500	0	0

Mr. WINDEYER must protest against the motion. The eight feet wall round the cemetery was all very well, but the stone walls round the six compartments was too absurd. The idea of dead men being cooped up in stone walls, in order to prevent their religious clashing! It might be very well that a division should be made for the different denominations, but surely a broad walk would be sufficient to mark such division, without a six feet stone wall, which, after all, would not prevent their ghosts getting at each other, if they were so inclined.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY explained, that the plan had been adopted in intended compliance with the report of the Committee of last session.

Dr. NICHOLSON, Mr. LAMB, and Mr. ROBINSON, members of the Committee, had neither of them ever heard a word about stone walls and compartments on Committee. It was proposed that the ground should be allotted to the different denominations, and that each division should have a separate entrance and be marked off by a broad walk.

Mr. LOWE was also a member of the Committee, and took blame to himself that he had not looked into the report more narrowly before it was adopted. He could see no use in sorting out the dead like so many suits of a pack of cards; far better would it be to spend the money required for these stone walls on a general system of education for the living, than in providing a denominational system of interment for the dead.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY was very glad that he was mistaken as to the intentions of the Committee, and would alter the vote by substituting the words "and improving the same," after the word "subdividing" in the original motion.—Carried.

The following items were also carried:—

Building a Watch-house, Picton	£150	0	0
Building a Watch-house, East Maitland	150	0	0

COUNCIL PAPER.

TRANSPORTATION SYSTEM.

[Received by the Berkshire, 28th September, 1846,]
(Private and Confidential.)

Downing-street,
30th April, 1846.

To Governor Sir C. A. Fitz Roy, New South Wales.

Sir,—I am desirous that at the commencement of your administrative duties as Governor of New South Wales, you should be possessed, in a form as definite as the state of the case admits, of the views of her Majesty's Government with regard to the introduction of convicts into that colony.

You are aware that the practice has, for some years past, been to exclude New South Wales from the sentences of transportation passed in this country; and that this practice is commonly reported to rest upon nothing less than a promise from her Majesty's Government, made in or about the year 1839, that transportation to New South Wales should cease; I do not think it necessary to examine the origin, or to question the accuracy of this opinion; for taking together the subject matter to which it refers, and the extent to which it prevails, I am inclined to believe that the practical mischief of exciting jealousies by controverting it, would be greater than any that can arise from acquiescence in the assumption of its correctness. It is, in short, the intention of her Majesty's Government not to alter the present practice as to the transportation of criminals, so far as New South Wales is concerned, without the general approval of the colony, or of that portion of it to be affected by such alteration. At the same time, while her Majesty's Government are desirous to lessen the number of convicts annually sent to Van Diemen's Land, they are also disposed to doubt whether, even independently of any regard to the state of things in that colony, it is to be desired that the absolute exclusion of transported convicts from New South Wales should continue; and thus much at least is evident, that now is the time for the consideration of the question, before the sentence of the convicts still serving their time in that colony shall have expired, and the establishments connected with convict discipline shall consequently be broken up.

Her Majesty's Government sympathise with the impatience of the colonists of New South Wales under the system which prevailed there some years ago, and can well understand that the renewance of that system, the resumption of transportation to that colony on a scale even faintly resembling the former one, must be regarded with a just jealousy and alarm. But the question is essentially and entirely different, whether it might not be a measure favourable to the material fortunes of New South Wales, and unattended with injury to its higher interests, to introduce either directly from England, at the commencement of their sentences, or from Van Diemen's Land, at some period during their course, a number of prisoners, small in comparison with the numbers which were carried to that colony under the former system of transportation; and smaller still, of course, relatively to the augmented population, among whom they would now be dispersed. It is, moreover, to be remembered that those prisoners would be employed upon a system different from that of former times, under which the abuses then complained of were generated.

I trust that the frank avowal which I have conveyed to you of the intention of Her Majesty's Government to respect the general sense of the colonists in their deliberations upon this important subject, will enable you with the greater ease to avail yourself of any opportunity which may offer of suggesting its consideration. On the other hand, it will be acceptable to her Majesty's government if the members of the Legislative Council of the colony should show a disposition to concur in the opinion that a modified and carefully regulated introduction of convict labourers into New South Wales or into some part of it, may, under the present circumstances be advisable.

It seems probable that we may again be approaching a period, if indeed such period has not already arrived, when the supply of free labour in the Australian colonies is upon the whole below the demand. It might even happen that in Van Diemen's Land, the supply of convict labour, large as it is, might be insufficient to meet all the beneficial cases open for its application; but the presumption is, that the former contingency, namely, that of a scarcity in free labour, will both arrive sooner, and endure longer. In Port Phillip, as I find from a despatch of your predecessor, the unequivocal signs of it have already begun to appear, and they have taken a direction not unnatural, namely, that of a desire for the introduction of prisoners passing through the later stages of their terms from Van Diemen's Land.

The labour of such persons would be more liberally remunerated in Port Phillip than in Van Diemen's Land. They would be much more thinly dispersed among the population, would form a scarcely perceptible element in the composition of society, and would enjoy those favourable opportunities of improving habits and character which transportation, according to its first theory, was designed to afford; and if this disposal of them, during the later portion of their respective terms, should follow upon a period of really efficient discipline in the probation gangs, (which as yet I by no means despair of their being made to yield) during the earlier portion,—in such case I conceive, while the economical benefit to Port Phillip would be great, the hazard from which such an immigration can never perhaps entirely be set free, would be reduced to its minimum, and the hopes of the ultimate reformation of the convicts proportionally raised.

One portion, therefore, of the subject, which deserves your consideration, and upon which you may find it advantageous to ascertain the sentiments of the colonists, is the question, whether hereafter it may be advisable to frame arrangements, by which persons having passed through their periods of probation in Van Diemen's Land, may be introduced, either under engagement, or as candidates for private employment, into New South Wales generally, or into the district of Port Phillip only; provided it should appear that the colonists of that district only are desirous of such introduction.

But, independently of the temporary and occasional scarcity of agricultural labour, or even of the introduction of bondsmen to enlarge the permanent supply, it will also be for you to consider, whether there are, or are not, certain descriptions of occupation, for the sake of which it might not be advisable regularly to introduce a limited number of convicts from England into the colony: I advert to the execution of public works generally—to the making and repair of roads, for which I apprehend there is not at present found to be any adequate provision in New South Wales. And to any other descriptions of employment which, from its irksomeness, or otherwise, are not sufficiently supplied by the free labouring population of the colony; always presuming that they are neither destructive to health nor essentially liable to moral objections; and, therefore, at variance with the reformatory principles on which it is the earnest desire of Her Majesty's Government to regulate the system of transportation. These employments ought to be of a nature so far requiring the aggregation of a number of labourers in the same place, as to give opportunity for the closest inspection, for subjecting the whole distribution of the time of the men, and all their habits, to a rigid discipline, and for applying to them the agency of systematic and effective religious instruction.

I have endeavoured to supply you, not with any definite plan, nor even with the essential elements or conditions of a plan,—but simply with some slight and general outline of the course into which it may be well for you to direct your reflections and enquiries upon a difficult but an important and interesting subject. As I may learn from you the progress you may make, whether at once or by degrees, in bringing it to maturity, I shall be prepared to communicate to you the determinate and particular views of Her Majesty's Government regarding it; but you will not lose sight of this fundamental proposition, that while Her Majesty's Government will receive with satisfaction any evidence of a disposition to second the views which I have here expressed, they disclaim the intention and the desire to take any proceeding in the matter except such as may be generally conducive to the interests, and agreeable to the inclinations of those whom it will most intimately concern.

I have marked this despatch as private and confidential, but I have to apprise you that it will be in your discretion to make it public if you shall find reason to consider that such a course would be expedient.

I have the honour to be, Sir,
Your obedient humble servant,
W. E. GLADSTONE.

INSOLVENCY BUSINESS.

BEFORE their Honors the CHIEF JUSTICE and Mr. Justice DICKINSON.

CONFIRMATION OF A PLAN OF DISTRIBUTION.

The CHIEF COMMISSIONER having moved, in the estate of Henry Terry Sheldon, the confirmation of a plan of distribution showing a dividend of 9d. in the pound for all the claims proved since the distribution of the former plan—there being no opposition, the motion was granted.

RULE NISI.—ROSETTA TERRY v. JOHN WALKER AND ANOTHER.

In pursuance of a rule nisi granted by the Court on the 30th ultimo, John Walker and Henry Macdermott appeared by their counsel, Messrs. Fisher and Michie, "to show cause why the order made in this matter (arising out of the insolvency of John Terry Hughes) by His Honor the Chief Justice on the twenty-second day of August last, directing that the examination of the said Rosetta Terry should not be set aside; and why the examination of the said Rosetta Terry, had and taken on the 7th of September last, should not be struck out on the several grounds mentioned in the papers filed on the 30th ult."

Mr. WINDEYER having moved that the rule be made absolute,

Mr. MICHIE, for Henry Macdermott, assigned thirteen reasons why the rule should be discharged, and was followed on the same side by Mr. FISHER for John Walker.

Mr. WINDEYER was in the act of replying to them, when

The COURT intimated that it was unnecessary for him to continue his arguments, as the Court was of opinion that it had the power to set aside the summons which had been issued by a single judge in this case for the examination of Mrs. Terry, without his being fully informed of the circumstances, as had he been so, the summons would not have been granted. It also appeared by the construction of the 67th and 70th section of the Insolvency Act, that the insolvent alone could be examined more than once. As the whole of the unrealised assets had been sold to a third party (the Bank of Australia) therefore the examination of Mrs. Terry could not be for the benefit of the creditors of the estate of John Terry Hughes, but of the party who had purchased the unrealised assets. But it was only for the benefit of the creditors of the estate that the law gave such extensive powers to the trustee, and on the sale of the unrealised assets the powers of the trustee ceased. Therefore the rule was made absolute for setting aside the Judge's order for Mrs. Terry's examination.

IN THE ESTATE OF W. DRAKE AND CO.

Mr. WINDEYER applied for and obtained a rule nisi, returnable next Wednesday, calling on the trustees to shew cause why they should not be ordered to file a plan of distribution within one week, and why they should not pay the costs of and caused by this application.

DOMESTIC INTELLIGENCE,

INSOLVENCY PROCEEDINGS.

CERTIFICATES OF DISCHARGE.—The Chief Commissioner will sit at noon to-day, to hear applications relative to certificates of discharge.

ABSTRACT OF SALES BY AUCTION THIS DAY.

MR. LLOYD.—At his Rooms, at 11 o'clock, Hops, Hay, Groceries, Drugs, and a Stanhope Gig.

MR. ROBERTS.—At half-past 12 o'clock, License of the New York Hotel, Lower George-street, Clock, Household Furniture, &c.

MR. FAWCETT.—At the Stores of Messrs. J. T. Armitage and Co., at half-past 10 o'clock, Drapery Goods.

COUNTRY SALE.

MR. DOWSE.—At Brisbane, October 15, a Herd of Cattle.

COLONEL BARNEY.—We understand that the suspension of Colonel Barney's appointment as Superintendent of North Australia arose from some arrangement at the Horseguards which prevented him from selling his commission in the army while holding a civil appointment, but the commission having been since sold, the objection has ceased to exist. A letter has been received in town mentioning that it had been determined to appoint Colonel Barney Superintendent of Port Phillip, but we cannot say upon what authority the statement was made.

The officers of the 11th Regiment entertained His Excellency the Governor and a large party at dinner yesterday evening.

POLICE BUSINESS.—TUESDAY.—This Court was opened before Captain Innes, continued by the Mayor, and closed at twelve (noon) before Mr. Windeyer. There were thirty-seven cases on the lists, viz., twelve drunkards, one of whom was discharged, two paid 5s., and three 11s.; two for not paying 5s. went two hours to the stocks; and four for not paying 11s. went to the cells for twenty-four hours: Bridget Parker, for vagrancy, was sent to gaol for one month. There were four summons cases, viz., Francis Gaunson, for obstructing the pathway, and George Wilkie, for allowing a pony to stray, were each fined 5s., the former to pay 6s. and the latter 5s. costs; Peter Hickey, for riding on his dray, was fined 10s., and 5s. costs, or to be imprisoned for fourteen days; one case for deserting a wife and children was dismissed at the request of complainant; and one assault case was also dismissed on the same ground. Of nineteen prisoners on the general list nine were discharged and three remanded; Jane Taylor, on the complaint of her husband John Taylor, Alexander Sinclair, on the complaint of his wife Elizabeth Taylor, for breaches of the peace, and George Stringer, on the complaint of Michael Conway, for an assault, were all bound to the peace for twelve months, Sinclair in £40, with sureties in £20 each, and the others in £10, with sureties in £5 each; William Ives, under agreement to serve William Parrott for three months as a mason, for getting drunk and absenting himself from his service, was ordered to be imprisoned for fourteen days and returned to service; James Leadbetter, free by servitude, for gross indecency in Fort-street before some children on Monday at midday, was ordered to pay a fine of £10, and 2s. 6d. costs, or to be imprisoned for four months; David Moses, for robbing J. M'Naught in Sussex-street, on Sunday forenoon, was committed for trial.—WEDNESDAY.—This Court was opened before Captain Innes, and closed before the Mayor and Mr. Holden, at eleven o'clock. There were twenty-three cases on the lists,—viz., five drunkards: one paid 11s., and three for not paying 5s. were sent to the stocks for two hours; Mary Cheetham and Walter Andrews were sent to gaol for six weeks, and Ann Richards and Jane Westropts for one month, all being vagrants. Of fourteen prisoners on the general list seven were discharged, two were remanded, George Rigby, for an assault, and Edward M'Mahon, for a breach of the peace, were each bound to keep the peace; John Crane, for an assault, paid 5s. and 4s. 6d. costs; Charles Austin, for committing an assault while in liquor, was ordered to pay £3 or go six weeks to gaol; John Ball, for attempting to pick pockets, was committed for trial.

BOAT STEALING.—On Friday last a man in the employ of Mr. John Ike Kettle, landed from a new dingy, at Whittel's wharf, Bathurst-street West, and previous to going to breakfast in that neighbourhood, made the boat fast to the wharf; on his return he discovered that the dingy had been stolen from her moorings—she has not since been heard of.

AN EXPLOSION.—About five o'clock on Tuesday morning Joseph Hobbs, a quarryman residing in Harrington-street, preparatory to firing a blast in George-street North, poured the charge of powder into the hole in a rock about to be blasted, when a lighted match was dropped by him into the hole over the powder, which instantly exploded, and burned Hobbs to a considerable extent about the neck and face. Had the charge been rammed home it is probable that his want of caution would have cost him his life.

CAPTURE OF A PICKPOCKET.—About twelve o'clock on Tuesday night, William M'Arthur detected Henry Ball in the act of picking his pocket, in John Solomon's public house Pitt-street: he was yesterday committed for trial.

We are requested by Mr. G. A. Lloyd to state that the sale of galvanized iron, advertised to take place this day, is unavoidably postponed in consequence of the plates not being yet landed.—Communicated.

EXTENSIVE SALE OF NEW FANCY GOODS, EX "BERKSHIRE."—Mr. R. Fawcett begs to remind drapers, storekeepers, and all classes of buyers of summer goods, that his sale takes place this day, at the new stores of Messrs. J. T. Armitage and Co., Miller's Point, adjoining those of B. Boyd, Esq., at half-past ten o'clock precisely, when the best selection of fancy goods ever imported into this market will be offered to unreserved sale, upon very liberal terms. N.B. The whole of the goods being landed, intending purchasers are ensured against disappointment.—Communicated.

NEWS FROM THE INTERIOR.

(From our Correspondent.)

PARRAMATTA.

DISTRESS IN IRELAND.

THE adjourned Meeting for the purpose of considering the propriety of raising subscriptions in aid of the poor in Ireland, was held at the Court House, on Monday afternoon.

Mr. George Oakes was unanimously called to the chair.

The meeting was, like the previous one, but thinly attended—a circumstance which, while it was by some of the speakers strongly descanted on as exhibiting apathy on the part of the Parramattonians, was by others explained to have its origin in the fact of collections having been already made at some of the places of worship in the town and district, were still being made at others, and that several individuals were actively engaged in gathering contributions from the residents by personal application from house to house. Want of space precludes report of more than the following resolutions, all of which were carried unanimously:—

Moved by the Rev. Dean COFFEY, R.C.C.; and seconded by Mr. BEALE:—"That this meeting is of opinion that the distress and misery with which it hath pleased divine providence to afflict our fellow-subjects in Ireland, is such as to call forth our heartfelt sympathy and strenuous exertions to alleviate."

Moved by Mr. BRADLEY, and seconded by Mr. BRIEN:—"That a subscription be raised for the purpose mentioned in the first resolution, and that this meeting pledge itself to use every exertion in its power to forward so humane an undertaking."

Moved by Mr. STAFF, and seconded by Mr. PHILLIPS:—"That a committee, consisting of the following gentlemen, with power to add to their number, be appointed to receive subscriptions, and to hand the proceeds to the committee of the Sydney Irish Relief Fund, viz., the Rev. James Walker, M.A., the Rev. Dean Coffey, Messrs. Oakes, Stephenson, Fitzsimmons, and Hickey.

Some very able and excellent speeches were made by the supporters of the resolutions, and there is every reason to believe that although the public meeting was not called in this district at so early a period as has been the case in others, it will yet have considerable effect, as some of the speakers stated that notwithstanding they had previously contributed to the fund raised in Parramatta, a by no means inconsiderable sum, they would nevertheless give a second subscription, in order to set an example for others to follow, and encourage the collecting committee appointed at this meeting to proceed in their good work.

[Our reporter has sent down a lengthy account of the proceedings before Mr. Elliott, on Monday, when the unfortunate lunatic Withers was brought up for insulting and threatening the Chief Constable, for which he was ordered to find sureties to be of good behaviour for twelve months. We do not see the necessity for publishing the report, as the ravings and actings of a madman can be of no public importance.]

ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE.

[ADVERTISEMENT.]

To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.

GENTLEMEN,—As Mr. Windeyer when asked to present to the Legislative Council the petition of certain inhabitants of Maitland, relative to the Maitland Hospital, was instructed to state "that the dissensions which induced the late Governor and his present Excellency Sir C. A. Fitz Roy to withdraw their patronage and support from that establishment were confined to the Clergymen of the different persuasions, and were now arranged by the removal of one of these from the Hunter district," I have thought it proper to publish the accompany letter from J. H. Plunkett, Esq., Her Majesty's Attorney-General, which will serve to show Mr. Windeyer and the other members of the Legislative Council that public aid was refused because the management of the Maitland Hospital had assumed "so decidedly a sectarian character as justly to become offensive to a large body of the inhabitants of the Hunter's River district." This letter was not printed sooner from an anxiety to avoid the infliction of censure, and in the hope of conciliation; nor would it now appear if Mr. Windeyer's informants had not led him into the expression of words at once offensive and untrue, the cause of complaint still subsists, in as much as the same partial Committee continue the management of the institution.

I am, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
THOMAS DEE.

West Maitland, October 3.

Sydney, May, 1846.

Sir,—I had the honour of presenting to His Excellency the Governor, the Petition of the Catholics of the Hunter's River district, which you, as their Secretary, forwarded to me for that purpose.

His Excellency deemed it right, previous to his official reply, to transmit to the Committee of the Maitland Hospital a copy of the Petition, inviting such observations on the facts stated therein, as they might think proper to make, as you are already in possession of the reply of His Excellency conveyed to you through the Colonial Secretary, on the 24th of April, it is unnecessary for me to do more than refer to it. It would, however, be uncandid in me, if I did not make known to those who honoured me with the presentation of their petition, that I could not, consistently with those principles which have always guided me, advocate its prayer: "for the establishment of a separate hospital to be exclusively in the hands of Roman Catholics." Such a separation would be a strange departure from the sound policy which has been observed during the successive administrations of Sir R. Bourke and Sir George Gipps, under which I have had the honour to serve in this colony, the object of which has been to amalgamate all Christians as closely as possible in harmony, good feeling, and charity towards each other.

In carrying out this policy, however, it must be the duty of the Government to see that the public institutions which are established and maintained for the benefit of the people of all creeds and classes without distinction, are conducted on principles in accordance with that object; and as the management of the Maitland Hospital has assumed so decidedly a sectarian character, as justly to become offensive to so large a body of the inhabitants of the Hunter's River district, as signed the late petition, (being upwards of 1400 in number.) I am informed that it is not the intention of His Excellency the Governor to place any sum for the Maitland Hospital on the Estimates for the next year,

I sincerely hope that the dissensions which have led to this result may soon be terminated, and that the reproach which now attaches to that institution, as being the only one throughout the colony that has produced sectarian feeling in its management, may be removed. The oldest and most extensive charitable institution in the colony, I mean the Benevolent Asylum, in Sydney, has been conducted, I believe, since its foundation, and to my own personal knowledge for the last fourteen years, without any, even the slightest, manifestation of sectarian spirit, though several clergymen and laymen of various religions, creeds, and opposite political opinions, attend to the business of the establishment in the house and on the committee. This is a strong proof, in my mind (if any were wanting) that such institutions can be so conducted as not only not to give offence to any section, but as to merit and enjoy the full confidence of the whole.

I have the honour to be, Sir,
Your obedient servant,
JOHN H. PLUNKETT.

Mr. Thomas Dee,
Secretary to the Roman Catholics of the Hunter River District.

To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.

GENTLEMEN,—Passing by the other mis-statements which appear in a paragragh in yesterday's Herald, headed "Right of Road," I request permission to supply an amendment to the following sentence:—

"Mr. Hollinshed subsequently informed the Court, that prior to the present time the trustees had offered to compound with Mr. James for a very small sum quarterly or annually, for his use of the small portion of the Botany Road which he traversed; but he had hitherto declined making any such arrangement, in consequence of which the trustees now stood upon their right to toll."

The truth is, that as no such offer was ever made to me by the trustees, or any one else, Mr. Hollinshed would not, and did not say so. I "traverse" no "portion" of the Botany Road, nor ever did—nor yet evaded payment of toll; as I, residing not on the Botany, but on the Cook's River Road, pay (by contract) the Cook's River Road toll; and I never did, even before there was a toll-bar on the Botany Road, pass where that bar now is.

It remains to be proved whether the trustees of that or any other parish road can legally erect or maintain fences to compel travellers to go out of their way an indefinite distance, in order to pay a toll which happens to be somewhere in the neighbourhood; and though the case referred to was decided against me, upon the very gratuitous assumption that I "had no business" where I was, I cannot pretend to say how such a judgment was arrived at, as there certainly was not a syllable of evidence to warrant such a conclusion, and the presiding magistrate did not enlighten the Court as to the other data upon which he founded his decision.

I remain, Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
THE PLAINTIFF,
Whose case was dismissed.

DINNEFORD'S PATENT IMPROVED ELECTRICAL HORSE-HAIR FLESH RUBBERS AND STRAPS.

ANOTHER therapeutic agent has been lately added to the list in the shape of "Horse Hair Gloves and Straps," for currying the human surface, when the skin is turpid; and we might add, for affording a luxurious treat to those who are afflicted with pruriginous and certain other cutaneous defœdations attended with itching and irritation. These gloves were invented, we believe, by a gallant military officer, and possess considerable advantages over the common flesh brush, both as to the facility of application, and the degree of counter-irritation. The cases are very numerous in which cuticular frictions are of the greatest importance; and we predict that this invention will prove very useful. In many instances it is a great desideratum to give employment to indolent patients in any kind of exercise, and that of friction is, perhaps, one of the best we can suggest, or which THEY will adopt.—Extract from the Medico-chirurgical Review.

6s. PER DOZEN.

IN consequence of the great distress in Ireland, it is a well-known fact that brewing from grain will for some time be abandoned; consequently, the importation of beer must for a time cease.

TEBBUTT AND CO., Bank of Australia, in laying this statement before the public, beg to observe, it affords them great pleasure in being able to remedy such an evil as that caused by the threatened stoppage of imported beer. In fact, the beer bottled by them being brewed entirely from malt and the best Kent hops, they do not see any necessity for importing an article which, from its very composition, is so decidedly prejudicial to health as most of the imported beer certainly is. Besides, as a matter of economy, the difference in price is so startling.

THE ESTATE OF CAPERTEE

is so well known as the property of the late Sir J. Jamison, that any comment would be superfluous. It occupies a large tract of country in the counties of Roxburgh and Hunter, (upwards of three and twenty square miles,) and is watered by the CAPERTEE RIVER, AND THE
CAPERTEE, COOK, AND UMBEILLA CREEKS,
lying near the Mudgee Road, at about 90 miles distance from Penrith.
There is a large quantity of fencing and other improvements upon the Estate, which is let to Benjamin Boyd, Esq., for ten years, from the 15th of July last, at a rental of £200 PER ANNUM.
So fine an estate as Capertee is very rarely to be met with. It consists of a series of selections granted to the late Sir John Jamison, and forming an area of 14,788 acres, traversed by three creeks.
If any place should command the notice of a party desirous of purchasing a valuable property, it is Capertee, and the rental is certain for years to come.
